Man murdered, three drowned

The body of the last of three drowning victims was located about 6 p.m. Tuesday climaxed a search which commenced about 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Mississippi Sound waters off Gulfside Methodist Assembly at Waveland.

Virtually every form of rescue organization in the area joined in the operation with upwards of 40 men in boats with grappling hooks and trawl nets, manning communications and maintenance, Bay St. Louis Civil Defense director Bert Stieffell reported.

The three Negro victims were Ernest W. Morgan, 35, coach at Milne Home in New Orleans; James Ramsey 15, and Bernard Lewis, 17, who were in the group of about 60 from the home who arrived Sunday at Gulfside for a week's outing. They were with some others in the party out swimming near the channel about half a mile from shore when the cry was sounded that a shark was in the area. Panic wracked the youngsters and Morgan sought to get them to shallow water. "Help, he's strangling me," were the last words heard from the husky athletic director, witnesses said.

Morgan's body was picked up by Alphonse Dorn in a trawl net about 3 p.m. and Bernie Piazza, sea rescue chief for

At hospital

Apply anew for 12 beds

Application for federal aid to build a 12-bed wing to Hancock General Hospital at an estimated cost of $73,000 was authorized by the board of supervisors Monday on the recommendation of Thomas O. Logue, hospital administrator.

The step was made necessary because the low bidder on the 24-bed and general plant expansion did not offer a price on the wing. The contract on the other work was approved the previous week.

Logue assured the board that local matching funds are available from the bond issue sold early this year. He estimated actual construction would run about $62,000, equipment $3,000; architects' fees $3,600 with contingencies $5,000.

Hospital occupancy averaged 33 patients during July and the work already authorized will mean only a net gain of 14 beds for the existing 30 bed plant.

Hold OK on region

A request for a $4,826 contribution to the regional planning commission and appointment of Hancock County's representatives on that body were turned down by the board of supervisors Monday pending approval of federal funds for local planning.

The dual request was presented by Joseph V. Colson of Waveland, chairman of the regional planning group. No formal action was taken but Supervisor H.C. Dean of Beat 1 aired his complaints about non-cooperation from the federal government and reiterated his previous position on the need for local ordinances to govern growth.

To this end the supervisors adopted a motion from Dean that trailers locating in Hancock County must secure a certificate from the State Board of Health after Dean complained that trailers did not observe an earlier board order requiring sewerage facilities for the mobile homes.

Colson indicated concurrence with Dean's view on the need for local planning but added the regional body would work with the county group and same money on aerial photography. He expressed belief regional planning would reduce costly duplication, observing, "I can't see industrial development in Hancock County where it will be duplicated in Pearl River County." Colson added the industrial seaway project in Harrison appeared to compete with the Hancock port and harbor commission's ideas.

Dean replied he was willing

Melvin J. Chauvin, 34, of Nicholson is being held in Hancock County jail without bond on a charge of murder in the fatal shooting Tuesday night at a county line tavern of Argil Smith, 45, of Carriere.

The killing climaxed a hectic week for local law enforcement authorities which began last Wednesday with the accidental shooting of a Leetown girl, a Negro rape case over the weekend and the drowning of three Negroes Monday in the Mississippi Sound off Waveland.

Smith was shot about 10:30 p.m. outside the Lamp Post Cafe on U. S. 11 at Santa Rosa, Sheriff Sylvan J. Ladner, Jr., reported. The cafe proprietor, Carl (Mutt) Miller, requested the men to leave the place when they got into a heated argument, the sheriff said.

Chauvin was there with his wife and she was reported under a doctor's care at Crosby Memorial Hospital for treatment for shock Wednesday. The sheriff said he had not yet been able to question either Chauvin or the woman to determine what the argument involved.

NY airman held here for rape

A 20-year-old New York Negro, stationed at Keesler Air Force Base, was bound over to the September grand jury on a charge of rape after a hearing Monday before Beat 5 Justice of the Peace Nolan Ladner.

Richard A. Curtis is being held in Hancock County jail on the charge resulting from the alleged assault of a 16-year-old local Negro girl about 9:30 p.m. Saturday, according to Chief Lathan Garriga of the Bay St. Louis police.

Garriga said Curtis was apprehended by the Air Police at Keesler about 2 a.m. Saturday and he and Officer Robert Goodsell immediately went to get him. They were assisted in the case by Sheriff Sylvan J. Ladner, Jr., and Chief Deputy Eldo Depreo.

A&I man on U.S. funds

Say priority for Hancock planning

Priority is being given Hancock County's request for federal-701 funds for county planning, E. Robert Daley of Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Board told regional planning commission members Tuesday night. Twenty persons, including guests, were present at the meeting held at Gus Steven's Restaurant, Henderson Point.

Daley also said that last week he "walked-through" Atlanta HHA officialdom a tentative request for funding for county planning prepared by A and I Board and received assurance of its approval. This was subsequently modified to "found no opposition" to the proposal.

In this connection, discussion developed the fact that no proper local request has been made through the state agency for federal financial assistance for the project. Louis Bissac, New Orleans, employed by the county as planning consultant, early this year submitted a request, including his idea of scope and his contemplated fee, but no request has even yet been made directly by Hancock County's board of supervisors. The latter procedure is normally required by the A and I Board, which is the state agency designated to handle these matters with the federal Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Grade teachers Big county need

Qualified, elementary teachers wanted. Such a sign should be in Hancock County Superintendent of Education Robert Ladner's office.

The shortage of six elementary teachers for the county system came to light at the school board's regular meeting Monday, when it accepted the resignation of Sidney M. Seal, Seal, who coached at Gulfview as well as taught, resigned to get more pay.

In addition Ladner told the board Pat H. Morrison, teacher and assistant football coach at Hancock North Central, was leaving to go to McGill Institute, Mobile, where he would receive greater pay. Thus, as things stood Monday, North Central was short three elementary teachers for the 1964-65 session, Logtown, two, and Gulfview, one.

There was also the possibility, Ladner told the board, that some of the school bus drivers approved by the board last week would not accept the job. This should pose no problem, he added, because other drivers with certificates were available.

Decision as to what rent to charge for housing at North Central was postponed until the full board was present at the suggestion of Board President Ed. P. Ortte. Coach Ezell Lee, who has been living in one of the system's houses rent free, had asked Ladner to ascertain what rent he would have to pay next year.

The board reiterated its policy on enrolling pupils living outside its area. The prospective student, Trustee S.P. Powell told the superintendent,

City appoints four to new zoning board

Appointments to the Bay St. Louis Board of adjustment established by the newly adopted zoning ordinance include Fred Wagner, member from the City Planning Commission, for five years; William Richards, three years; Allan J. Sarat, two years, and S.K. Kepner, one year. These four were named at Monday's meeting of the Commission Council, with an additional four-year member appointed later.

The zoning ordinance states that the board adjustment "shall have the authority to hear and decide appeals where it is alleged that there is error in any

Waveland won't exempt Gulfside

Property owned by Gulfside Methodist Assembly cannot be exempted from tax assessment on grounds that it is solely a non-profit and religious organization, town attorney Dan M. Russell told Waveland's mayor and board of aldermen Tuesday night.

The decision came about after Mayor Garfield Ladner explained that the Assembly is protesting its assessment of approximately $500, and had paid the taxes under protest. Council agreed that the property is considered a subdivision, has been divided, and a plat of that property is on record at the Hancock County Courthouse.

In addition, the mayor continued, one lot of that property had been sold several years ago to a man whom the Assembly referred to as a retired minister now living in Jackson.

Russell declared that the exemption of properties used for religious purposes might be considered optional with the municipality concerned, though the Gulfside property could not be considered a non-profit organization.

The mayor also reported that Harry Plant of Pecan Grove Lane, and his attorney had advised that they would enter suit against the town of Waveland, if a dragline is brought onto Plant's property to open drainage.

The mayor explained that the area is a natural drain, and that the town had maintained it.

In addition, the Board is authorized to grant a variance of zoning regulations provided that the applicant can show that strict compliance with the terms of the ordinance would impose undue hardship.

Council also discussed plans for the renovation of City Hall, which will provide greater of

Bay business index for May paces state

We're at the top. That is, Bay St. Louis leads the state in increased business activity since a base period of 1956-58. With the index figure of 100, assigned an index figure of 100, business activity in Bay St. Louis during May reached 288, according to Mississippi

Business Review. This compares with 275 for April and 162 for May, 1963. The first time the city passed the 200 mark on this index was in January when the figure was 210. May, 1964, figures for surrounding municipalities are: Gulfport, 152; Pass Christian, 152; Piquette, 142; and Poplarville, 158. State leaders behind Bay St. Louis are Brandon with 262, Pascagoula, 257, Mandeville, 254, and Ocean Springs, 225. These cities have been in the over 200 category for more than a year.

SANITATION FINDING - Findings of a sanitation survey of Bay St. Louis last spring are presented in slide form Tuesday night at public meeting conducted by Jaycees who co-sponsored study. Presentation was made by V.T. Hawkins of state board of health and Wayne Allister, county sanitarian. About 10 people attended.

Teen Times

We have to remind you, but it's getting close to be thinking about returning to school. Actually, a little over four weeks of vacation remains, for most, but local schools are now announcing registration and opening dates. Those who plan to attend St. Joseph Academy and haven't already registered may do so on Friday, Aug. 14. Classes at St. Stanislaus begin on Sept. 9. New Orleans universities will be forced to cut their summer schedule this year as many schools in the Crescent City will begin classes on Monday, Aug. 31, over a week earlier than in past years.

We're always giving warnings, most of which go unheeded, naturally, but think it well to remind all authors and small business (and girls) to stick to the close to shore during the weeks to come. Many newswriters may not realize that we're just about in the midst of our annual hurricane season, and while really bad blows are infrequent, scattered weather conditions lead to sudden squalls which can come up in minutes and turn calm waters into waves much to hazardous for small craft to navigate. If you don't believe us, just give Walker Chamberlain a call and he'll give first hand information.

We're just bursting with pride over the accomplishments of our local competitive swimming team... we think their record of 11 firsts, 9 seconds, six thirds and 11 fourth place awards in a district meet in Vicksburg two weeks ago is remarkable. Best of all, despite the fact this is the first year these local boys and girls have participated in competitive meets, 19 were qualified to enter the state meet in Jackson.

Debbie Wood of Greenville, is apparently spending the balance of the summer with Echo reporter, Neil Thomas. Peggy Helmsman has returned home after spending several weeks visiting her sister and brother-in-law in Strevport, La.

Francis Shippey is home again also, Francis and his mother took to the World's Fair while in New York visiting her family. Reopening of Clermont Harbor-Lakeshore Youth Center was quite a success... 113 teen-agers turned out for a

New type tractor eases logging job

New logging methods permit harvesting and collection of inaccessible hardwood timber, according to Area Forester Homer Mackley.

Most of the valuable hardwood timber in Hancock County is located along the Pearl River delta, which is usually under water in the winter months or wet in the summer months. Until recently, the cost of logging some of this timber has been prohibitive.

The development of a new tractor called the Tiger permits this timber to be harvested economically. The Tiger is a truck of vehicle which resembles a tank. It is powered by a 200 horsepower engine and it pulls a trailer loaded with logs over soft ground and through swamps that would be impossible to cross with conventional logging equipment. Valuable timber that is located on small islands or across bays may now be harvested at a profit.

The Tiger has a fifth wheel just like an ordinary log truck where a trailer is attached. The trailer is loaded with logs and the Tiger pulls it to an improved road where the trailer is unhooked from the Tiger and hauled to a conventional truck. This way the logging trucks operate on good roads, thus eliminating lost time due to bogging down and breaking down.

The Tiger cuts the cost of logging. This means the logger can deliver logs to the mill at a lower cost and thus pay the logger a higher price for the timber. Some loggers report that they can haul as many logs to the mill in a day using two trucks and the Tiger as they previously hauled using four trucks without the Tiger.

District Forester Kenneth Burchfield noted Mississippi leads the nation in hardwood timber production. Most of the hardwood timber harvested in Hancock County goes to the veneer mill in Piquette.

Col. Wessels new deputy for NASA support

Lt. Col. Robert R. Wessels has been named deputy district engineer for NASA support for the Mobile District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. He will be responsible for monitoring and coordinating the design, engineering and construction program of the Mobile district in carrying out as agent for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Mississippi Test Operations and at Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala.

Wessels reported to Mobile headquarters after completing the course at the Army War College, Carlisle Barracks, Pa. Commissioned in the infantry after graduating from the U. S. Military Academy, he transferred to the Corps of Engineers in 1946. He has completed courses of instruction at advanced service schools and attended Cornell University for postgraduate work in mechanical engineering. He was an instructor of military engineering at the military academy.

His military assignments include staff and command duties and a brief period as prisoner of war during World War II, when his unit in the 106th Infantry Division was overrun by German forces during the Battle of the Bulge.

Mrs. Wessels, the former Miss Mary Jane Luehke of Elrama, Pa., is a former officer in the Army Nurse Corps. The couple have a son and a daughter and reside at 5167 Mauldine Drive in Mobile.

Colonel Wessels' predecessor as deputy district engineer for NASA support, Col. David Roberts, has been assigned to the office of the Chief of Engineers in Washington, where he will continue NASA support duties in a higher echelon.

Water Sports

Growing by leaps and bounds, water sports has become one of the most popular pastimes in recent years on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. The Gulf Yachting Association, in cooperation with its member yacht clubs, has capitalized fully on this form of recreation.

The Lipton Cup Regatta, symbol of sailing superiority for the member GYA clubs and attracting national interest, is held annually and draws yachtsmen from fourteen participating clubs, including those at Sarasota, St. Petersburg, Panama City, Fort Walton, Fairhope, Mobile and New Orleans as well as the clubs at Gulfport, Pass Christian, Biloxi and Bay-Waveland.

Last year's Regatta was won by the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, which automatically becomes the 1964 host club. The Regatta will be held there Labor Day weekend, September 5-6-7.

One unique feature of the Lipton Regatta is that competing boats are owned and furnished by the Gulf Yachting Association member clubs. A certain number of identical Gaff Rigged Keel Sloops, called "Fish Boats" because of large red fish on their sails, are owned by each of the GYA clubs.

For the Regatta boats are drawn by lot as they compete for the three-foot high, $10,000 Lipton Cup.

In addition to the Lipton Cup Regatta, other boating and sailing events make the Mississippi Gulf Coast a major mecca for sailing and fishing: The Mississippi Coast Yachting regattas, the Blessing of the Shrimp Fleet at Biloxi, the annual Outboard Motorboat Racing Jubilee, the Coast Power Boat Squadron's cruises, the Fourth of July Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo at Gulfport, the Pass Christian Fishing Tournament and Gulf Hills' Water Skiing Sweetstakes.

The Mississippi Sound, the Gulf, the Bays, Rivers and Bayous, together with the outlying islands make the Mississippi Gulf Coast area a water sports and fisherman's paradise. With small craft harbors and marinas springing up in ever increasing numbers, the Mississippi Coast is recreationally and commercially coming into its own as a mecca for boatmen and yachtsmen.

Boating has become big business as millions of people find surcease and fun by the sea. Our waterfront is our biggest natural asset as we seek additional opportunities to use it to build a more diversified prosperity.

Each of us can play his part in this development by encouraging a more intensive use of water resources along Mississippi's Seven Cities by the Sea.

Barbara Gray's oil is best in coast show

BY ROBERT J. GRIGER

An exhibit of Contemporary Southern Art at Sear's Roebuck, Gulfport, co-sponsored by the Gulf Coast Art Assn. opened July 28th and ran through Aug. 1st. Admittedly we attended the show with some misgivings. Expecting yet another exhibit of works by "Sunday painters" and others who draw occasionally, we were completely overwhelmed by the professional quality of many of the entries.

James B. Byrnes, director of the Delgado Museum of New Orleans, judged the 208 pictures displayed. We would not presume to disagree with his choice of winners. Confronted with the many really creative and imaginative works he must have been hard put to select the winners in each of the four categories. The selections were a good balance of various styles.

Miss Barbara Gray of Bay St. Louis who has studied at the Art Students League in New York under the guidance of several major artists of our time, won top honors with an oil simply titled "Portrait". The painting is an intensely personal, almost introspective, interpretation of the artist's father.

First place winners in other categories were abstract: Terry Gautier, water color, Lucy Millaps, and mixed media: Ralph Brewer.

These paintings will join the traveling exhibit of Southern Contemporary Art and will be eligible for a $2,000 award following the final showing in Atlanta, Ga., later this year. Other paintings that had great personal appeal were Claudia O'Connor's "It is New Orleans", well planned precisely enclosed in gray, white and black, inner without becoming mechanical.

Miss Millaps' "Pass Christian" has a fresh approach to an often painted subject. Peggy Cassibry Hinds' "Autumn", an abstract of pasted paper shows an understanding of color and design. Harry Reeks' study in water color, we feel, deserved more than honorable mention.

The substantial attendance and enthusiasm of the viewers seemed indicative of a general and rapidly increasing interest in original art, as the prices of the paintings currently displayed, indicate they are not beyond the average means. Indeed, some were less expensive than reproductions.

BAY ARTIST JUDGED BEST - Miss Barbara Gray of North Beach poses beside her oil, "Portrait", which was judged best in show of Gulf Coast Art Assn. last week at Sear's in Gulfport.

Postpone 4-H fair to Nov. 6

The 4-H fair has been postponed until Nov. 6, to allow the 4-H and Home Demonstration Clubs to hold sufficient planning meetings. Mrs. Joe Hughes, home agent, has announced. The decision was made at a meeting of the County Home Demonstration Council Friday. Mrs. Russell Kintzley, chairman and Mrs. Maurice George, co-chairman. The fair was originally set for Sept. 11.

The Gulf South 4-H fair will be held in Sept. 27 in Piquette. Attending from Bay St. Louis will be Susan and Mary Jane Dees, Nancy Swords, Dale Russell, Betty Jo Hughes, Kathleen Maloney, Edna Moran, Ann Bennett, Gwen Parre, with others expected. Exhibits in handicraft, needlecraft, canned and baked goods will be shown.

Neighbors help us to live longer and enjoy it more

Most of the comforts and conveniences that we enjoy today are accessible to us more or less in proportion to the number of people who live near us.

Schools, churches, doctors, electric power, stocks of foods, medicines, and clothing, trained technicians to service our needs, customers for the products of our own labor... all of these are ours to enjoy... as long as there are enough PEOPLE in the community to support them.

Every dollar that leaves this community helps to move somebody out. Every dollar that is spent here, helps to bring more people in.

Bay and bayou

By HANK EVANS Rt. 1, Box 314C

After looking at the tiny sizes of fish brought in by a well-known fisherman (ready for the pan they were barely two inches long), one of our local tavernkeepers came up with a recipe worth passing on. He calls it a potato-chip fish fry and it goes like this:

First, you prepare the usual egg batter and corn meal. Heat a frying pan and fat. Then open a fresh bag of potato chips and carefully select the nice, flat ones. Take the chosen chips and carefully between thumb and forefingers, dip them in the egg batter, roll in the corn meal, fry the normal way and serve.

Looking once more at the baby fish before him, our connoisseur observed it would be hard to tell the difference between the fish and his fried chips by the time they were cooked. Besides, the fish would save our fisherman all the trouble of going out in the bay to catch minnows.

In other words, fellows, please throw the little ones back so they can grow up!

Marine Sgt. Pete Garcia has been in on leave from Camp Lejeune, N.C. He hasn't neglected his fishing away from home and has some excellent king mackerel off the North Carolina coast. We dug out some pictures of Pete taken when he was on leave last year and noticed he hasn't been neglecting the dinner table either.

The great day finally arrived for Air Force Sgt. Paul Cox; he became Mr. Cox last Thursday. He arrived home for a happy reunion with Rita and the children and a lot of welcoming handshakes from friends. Paul's immediate plan is just to get used to being a civilian.

The easterly winds and seas and generally stirred up confusion over last weekend sent a lot of fishermen home with empty boats and light iceboxes. Tommy Kidd reported disappointment after a trip out as far as Mitchell Key; the party returned with a string of only 35 and they weren't bragging about the average size.

After a trip to Half Moon Island last week, Louis Decelfe had back plenty of fish and fish stories. He came back with a collection of flounder, redfish, and trout both white and spotted. Louis observed the best catches were always off the west side of the island.

Leo Cholina is always dying to go fishing. Only trouble is that he is in work for a living keeps getting in the way. Don't we all have the same problem?

Malibu Spike Sutherland at dawn Saturday while he was gassing his airplane at the Picaune airport. Spike's been having a ball during this vacation, flying from the Bay out to Chaucer Island, landing on the beach and throwing a shad rig into the water. He and son Pat brought back a nice load of flounder, redfish, and speckled trout one day. The very next day Spike and son French went out and had to load the plane down with a load of redfish!

Dr. A. K. Martinovich, Jr., and his father, together with Ivan Martinovich, Tom Logue, and Ed Arceneaux were out off Chaucer Island for a try at the big ones last Friday. Though they weren't out long enough this time to hook any real monsters, they did hook a string of bonito, spanish mackerel, and lemon fish. Doc Martinovich caught a pair of huge sharks swimming side-by-side. The doctor, Stamese twins with lateral attachment!

Young sailor Dave Fagen, son of Mrs. Polly Fagen of Waveland, passed through town for a very brief visit and made us all jealous while telling of his windjammer adventures this summer. Dave shipped out as helmsman in the 700-odd mile race from Newport, R.I. to Bermuda. At Bermuda he was over to another vessel and returned via Nortolk and Waveland. Dave was planning to squeeze in one more sailing trip before returning to the University of Florida where he's studying architecture.

In make-up games

Braves, Scoops post Pony wins

League leading Bay Braves posted a 5-3 victory over Fahey Drug and SeaCoast Echo Scoops downed last place Youth Center 16-2 Monday in make-up games in the Pony League.

Brave Bert Chevis lined a double and two singles while Sylvan Ladner and David Compretta punched out singles for the Braves hits off Fahey pitcher George Logan.

Gregory Presnell lined a single in the third inning for the only Fahey hit. The three runs were added on a series of walks and errors.

David Compretta was credited with the one-hit victory, Logan the loss.

In the second game scoop Perry Stephens lined a homer and a single, Bobby Grover tripled, R. Lafontaine smashed a triple, double and single and Jimmy Loiacano and Mike Benigno tagged doubles.

YC's two runs on two hits came J. Darnell's double and R. Curets' single. Claude Yarborough pitched the victory. Darnell was loser.

The Braves got a 9-0 forfeit over Youth Center and the Scoops squeezed by Fahey Drug 5-3 last Thursday.

The Echo picked up one run at home.
